Wintertime In Minden

*Every Fall when winter draws near;
Some of our good friends disappear;
They all go south where the weather is hot;
and a lot of warm clothes can be forgot;
They leave us behind to shovel snow,
and struggle with temperatures thirtybelow
My Mother often used to say,*

*We should have let the Indians stay;
But once in a while where the sun is out,
Our scenery is something to rave about;
We have our Card Parties every week,
And the more ambitious new hobbies seek;
The sound of ski-doo's is heard again,
A sport enjoyed by women and men;*

*And then at last dear April is here,
And our absent friends begin to appear;
We see them again in Church and in store,
And life is back to normal once more.*

2 beers and police could seize your car

A proposed Ontario law that would allow police to suspend a driver's license for 12 hours, on the spot, if a portable breathalyzer shows an alcohol reading of .05, is a monstrous breach of our civil rights.

It allows the police officer to be judge and jury and to mete out the punishment all in the space of five minutes. And the accused would in fact have broken no law whatsoever. No one would argue against any legitimate measure that would deter drunken driving.

Attorney General Roy McMurtry argues that drivers who have a blood-alcohol reading of .05 or over, are a potential hazard. If that is the case he should seek to have the federal government revise the criminal code to have the legal impairment limit lowered from the present .08.

He should not attempt to penalize drivers for committing an offence that does not exist or to impose on police officers such awesome power.

In fact, it is doubtful that a driver with just .05 blood-alcohol content is a hazard. The addiction research foundation says an average person would be at that level by drinking two bottles of beer in the space of one hour.

If he then drove, he could not only lose his license for 12 hours, he could have his car impounded and suffer whatever consequences that followed.

And the accused would never actually be charged or have the right to defend himself in any court. That is a police state law if there ever was one!

Sawmill closure could cost 150 to be laid off this week

HARCOURT — Up to 150 employees at G. W. Martin Lumber will be out of work this week when Martin Lumber plans to close its sawmill operation on December 18th.

General Manager Brian Sarginson said early last week that the employee's union had not received notice of the closure as yet.

Reasons for the shut down is a surplus of lumber inventory, created by high interest rates and a faltering economy. The closure will run from Dec. 18 to January 4, 1982. A small portion of the logging and shipping operation at the Harcourt Division may remain open according to Sarginson. The mill had previously shut down earlier that year from Oct. 30 until November 16th.

Sarginson said that logging operations have not been working at 100 percent employment since last September, and will probably affect another 70 men in the bush. The mill is presently dealing only with contractors with seniority, for their log purchases.

Donnelly's body was positively identified through dental records on Monday by Dr. Douglas Stoneman of the University of Toronto. Stanhope firefighters host annual Christmas Party, Sat.

More than 100 of Stanhope Township's senior citizens and children turned up at the community centre on Saturday for the annual Christmas party, sponsored by the Stanhope Firefighters Association.

The party began at 1:30 in the afternoon and was MC'd by fireman Dale MacDonald. The seniors and children were treated to films, music and song by Larry VanLieshout, a demonstration on making doggie's out of balloons by Mrs. Ann Barker and a Christmas carol sing-song.

Following this, Santa Claus arrived on the scene with a bag full of presents for the children, seniors and wives of the firefighters. After a brief social period when Santa talked to everyone about what they would like for Christmas he was off on another engagement.

The day's activities ended with a delicious luncheon and tea prepared by the Firefighters Association.

Barkwell nets four

Keetch leads Home Hardware to first place, scores four goals

MINDEN — Home Hardware has now moved into first place in the men's town league here with their 9-5 victory over Hartwick Construction last Monday. The Hardware boys and the Rockcliffe Hotel were tied at the top with 5-1-1 records for 11 points. However, Rockcliffe fell when they were upset 7-6 by last place Hall's Insurance in the second game.

Jim Keetch led the Home boys to their victory scoring four times. Hartwick opened up a 52 lead midway through the second but the roof fell in on them when Home scored four goals in the space of one minute and five seconds, two of them short handed markers. Home had three short goals and also scored once on the power play.

Harris Steele and Barry Walker each scored twice in the game while Doug MacNabb added a single.

In the second contest Rockcliffe Hotel opened up a 3-1 lead at the end of the first period on goals by Jerry Campbell and two by Wally Stender. John Barkwell scored the first of his five goals on the evening to tie the game at 1-1 early in the period.

Pete Pearson, playing his finest game tied it in the second when he cashed two perfect setups from Dave Dollo. Then Barkwell scored two to put Hall's ahead to stay 5-3. He scored twice more in the third to give Hall's their second win of the season.

Stender got his third of the night in the last period while Campbell netted his second and Dave Brown got the sixth goal as time was running out.

Standings after eight weeks of play are Home 6-1-1 for 13 pts; Rockcliffe 5-2-1 for 11; Hall's Insurance 2-6 for 4 and Hartwick 1-5-2 for 4 pts.

Next Monday evening Home can all but wrap up the league championship when they meet the Hotelmen at 7 pm. A win would put them four points up on the Hotel boys with the two teams meeting twice more before the season ends.

"Cooking with Jehane Benoit"

Cookies with a Christmas spirit

Of course shortbread are the first Christmas cookie that we think of, but many others are there to be enjoyed, such as the Mincemeat Crispies, the Rolled Spiced Cookies, etc. Hang some in the Christmas tree or fill a pretty basket of assorted cookies to serve with hot punch or spiced tea or Christmas eggnog.

FIVE RULES TO PERFECT SHORTBREAD

1. Always use first-quality (sweet or unsalted) butter at room temperature;
2. Use rice flour; difficult to find — easier at health food shops;
3. Sift AT LEAST 3 TIMES the flour, cornstarch and rice flour;
4. Bake "gently". Do not try to bake them until dark brown — or just even brown. They should have a pale beige color;
5. Let them "ripen", well covered, in a plastic box for at least 6 days.

If you can do all this, shortbread success is yours. If you wish, you can cut the recipe in half. But remember, they will keep 4 months, well covered in a cool place. (Do not refrigerate.)

CHRISTMAS SHORTBREAD

- 1 cup (250 mL) butter
- 2 cups (500 mL) sifted pastry flour
- ½ cup (80 mL) fruit sugar
- ½ cup (80 mL) rice flour.

Use one ungreased baking sheet. Preheat oven to 325°F (160 C). Baking time: 30 minutes.

Beat butter in a large bowl with a wooden spoon until it is very creamy. Add sifted flour and beat well.

Combine fruit sugar and rice flour. Add to butter mixture and blend all the ingredients together thoroughly. Cover bowl and place mixture in the refrigerator for 1 hour.

Using palms of hands, pat dough out to ¼ inch (0.625 cm) thickness. Cut with a 2 inch (5 cm) round cookie cutter. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Prick each shortbread several times with a fork.

Yield: Twenty-eight 2 inch (5 cm) round shortbread.

ROLLED SPICE COOKIES

The dough is rolled out and cut into rounds.

- ½ cup (125 mL) sugar
- 1½ cups (375 mL) molasses
- 1 cup (250 mL) butter or

- shortening
- 4 cups (1 L) all-purpose flour
- 1 tbsp. (15 mL) baking soda
- 3 tsp. (15 mL) cinnamon
- 2 tsp. (10 mL) ground ginger
- 1 tsp. (5 mL) ground cardamom (Optional)
- ½ tsp. (2 mL) salt
- 1 cup (250 mL) buttermilk or sour milk
- 2 egg whites
- Sugar.

Place the sugar and molasses in a saucepan, stir over low heat, until the sugar is melted. Add the butter or shortening and combine, stir over low heat, until the butter is melted. Remove from heat and cool.

Sift 3 cups (750 mL) of the flour with the baking soda, cinnamon, ginger, cardamom and salt. Measure the fourth cup of flour and set aside. Add the dry ingredients to the molasses mixture alternately with the buttermilk, then mix thoroughly until you have a soft dough, very easy to do with the electric mixer. Turn the dough on a floured table and knead for 5 minutes. Wrap in waxed paper and refrigerate for 12 to 24 hours. Roll out the dough about ¼ inch (0.625 cm) thick. Cut into 2 inch (5 cm) rounds. Set on a buttered cookie sheet, 1 inch (2.5 cm) apart, brush each cookie with slightly beaten egg white. To taste sprinkle with pink sugar.

Bake in a 350°F (180 C) oven 15 to 20 minutes.

Yield: About 4 dozen.

Risk Takers Penalized by Federal Budget says Ontario Treasurer Frank Miller

TORONTO, December 2 — Ontario Treasurer Frank Miller says he is worried about the effects of the recent federal budget on the investment climate in Canada and on the country's prospects for economic growth.

Presenting his ministry's 1981-82 estimates, Mr. Miller told the Standing Committee on General Government today that governments should never make significant changes affecting business decision-making without consulting the private and public sectors — and without carefully considering the timing of changes.

"On both these counts Mr. MacEachen's budget falls far short," he said, "and this has serious implications for investment in Canada."

The Treasurer said the November 12 budget "impedes" the financing of investment by "limiting the deduction on interest expenses, by taxing income on an accrual basis rather than a cash basis, and by severely limiting the averaging of incomes between years."

The toughest provision, he said, was the limitation placed on deductibility of interest expenses against income. "Not only does this rob the economy of some of its growth prospects," he said, "but it is patently unfair."

Big business and wealthy investors may be able to adjust to the MacEachen measures, said Mr. Miller, but he was more concerned about ordinary people who are willing to take risks and small businesses starting up.

"It is new businesses, and small businesses generally, which provide most of the job creation in this country, as well as contributing significantly to our prospects for prosperity in the long run," he said.

Mr. Miller told committee members that while the federal budget claimed to have equity as one of its main objectives, some of the changes hurt the average citizen "very deeply."

One example of this inequity, he said, was the taxation of investment income earned on a whole-life insurance policy. "They propose to tax such income on an accrual basis every third year" even though "many ordinary Canadians use life insurance policies as savings as well as insurance vehicles."

"Mr. MacEachen should be made aware that by these changes he will hurt those Canadians with small personal investments and surely that should not be the intent of the federal tax system," said Mr. Miller.

Mainstream Canada

Message to government: don't tinker with press

By W. Roger Worth

Freedom of the press is one of those fine sounding phrases that the public generally takes for granted, until proposals are made to restrict that freedom. Then people sit up and take notice.

That's exactly what happened following release this summer of the Kent Commission Report on concentration of newspaper ownership in Canada.

First, the country's daily newspapers had a field day, pointing out that the federal government would necessarily have an impact on editorial material included in newspapers if Kent's recommendations were followed. One of the recommendations, for example, would place tight government controls on newspaper ownership.

The weekly newspapers and the rest of the media then joined the fray, with many of the voices further emphasizing there is no place for government overseers in the newsrooms of the nation.

Now small business has spoken. In a recent survey, 67 percent of the responding members of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business voted against government controls on newspaper ownership. Some 22 percent favored such action, and 11 percent had no opinion.

"Our members take the position that anyone should have the right to buy and sell their properties, and that includes newspapers," said organization President John Bulloch. "Once government gets into something, it tends to set the rules and take over."

While Bulloch agrees there is certainly unease about corporate concentration in the newspaper business, he points out that the press and governments are natural adversaries.

"This is one of those important checks and balances that make our system work, and our members are saying they don't want this system tinkered with," he added.

1982 vehicle stickers are now available at 310 offices

It's that time of year again when car owners think about getting their license plate stickers for the new year. The red motor vehicle stickers went on sale last week at 310 offices throughout Ontario.

There will be no increases in fees however — $30 for a four cylinder; $45 for a six and $60 for an eight with an engine displacement of less than 6.5 litres.

Owners of eight cylinder cars with an engine displacement of more than 6.5 litres, registered after Dec. 1, 1977 will pay $80.00.

Trailer registration now valid for the life of the vehicle, remains at the one time fee of $25.00.

Motorcycle and moped registration stickers remain at $20 and $5 respectively.

Fees for snowmobiles and historic vehicles are $10, anywhere in the province. All non-commercial vehicles must have a valid license by midnight, Feb. 28, 1982 if they are to be driven in Ontario.

The licensing office in Minden is located at the Minden Boat Works beside Newmarket Pre-Cast on Highway 35. In Haliburton, it is located at Varty Jewellery and Gifts Ltd. on the main street.

Miller Reinstates Sales Tax for Hospitality Industry

TORONTO, December 4 — Ontario Treasurer Frank Miller has announced the seven per cent retail sales tax on accommodations, furnishings and kitchen equipment for the hospitality industry would be reinstated as scheduled on January 1, 1982.

In a letter to industry members Mr. Miller said the industry's setbacks had been turned around and that the exemptions introduced in the late seventies were no longer necessary.

The Treasurer noted, however, that he is aware of the hospitality industry's sensitivity to trends. He stated he will continue to monitor its performance and initiate a study of the current tax structure to determine if further government assistance is warranted. Mr. Miller said he will seek input from industry representatives in carrying out this review.
